FOREWORD

The compiler of Volume One of Williamson County, Tennessee "Vital Statistics" has asked me to write a brief statement concerning, her latest genealogical achievement, Family Bible Records. It is my great pleasure to commend her conscientious diligence and tireless energy in seeking out the owners and custodians of old and not-so-old Bible.

She has located them in counties where descendants of early Williamson County families presently live, and placed the births, marriages and deaths among those located in the bounds of contemporary Williamson. She has visited the homes of Bible owners and personally transcribed the Record Pages. She has been permitted to have reproductions made of the records in other Bibles, has received information by letter and by telephone as to listings in still other Bibles. There could hardly be a method of securing such truly Vital statistics that has not been utilized by Louise Lynch.

Her enthusiasm as to rescuing The Past from oblivion thru fire, flood or neglect is contagious and the results of her interest and efforts may well be emulated in other areas whose like published records are woefully lacking.
